

Testimonials from around the world

Chris Morgan is a talented presenter who knows how to keep students engaged. He took time to speak to me about the needs of the group before the workshop and designed his programme to match my expectations. My students were fascinated to hear his experiences as an author and they are inspired to write as a result. My Grade 6 students are reading his novel in lessons and it was a treat for them to meet the author of the story. Chris' workshop will hopefully be an annual event for our school.

- Jo Bowsher, International School Laren, NL

Chris Morgan visited Monbulk Primary School to share his experiences as an author to our Year 5/6 with such success! Chris kept the students captivated and engaged by having them participate in interesting activities. Chris also shared the writing process in a clear and meaningful way that supported the learning that the students have undertaken in the classrooms. We would highly recommend Chris Morgan as a visiting author to any school!

- Lynn Ordish, Monbulk Primary, AU

The entire class thoroughly enjoyed Christopher's enthusiasm and energy, somehow managing to hold the attention of the entire group for several hours. We were impressed not only with his ability to relate to the kids but also in the quality of the materials he used throughout his sessions.

- Jamie Culican, Special Education Teacher, NJ, USA

Christopher Morgan was able to keep some very active children engaged throughout his brilliant presentations. His interactions with them were both fun and exciting as they learned about all the characters throughout his cleverly planned out adventures. We can't wait to have him back.

- Paul Morgan, Thurrock Marching Brass, UK

Chris provided a thought provoking workshop for our Year 3/6 students which enabled the students to think critically about themselves as authors. Chris shared his journey of becoming a published author and kept the children engaged with his activities.

New York Times & USA Today
bestselling author
Christopher D. Morgan

Christopher D. Morgan is a British born, New York Times & USA Today best selling author. He is also a blogger, IT Manager, graphics artist, businessman, volunteer and family man who has travelled the world and now lives in The Netherlands.

He has a deep passion for writing and educating children, combining the love of both into his highly successful author school visit program.

Author visits are high-energy, interactive, informative and extremely fun for all students.

Christopher interacts well with kids of all ages, rewarding them throughout the sessions for asking and/or answering questions with lots of prizes and giveaways. Every student gets a free prize.

Sessions can be tailored to suit the school's curriculum needs. Individual sessions can run anywhere from 45 minutes to 2+ hours. Multiple consecutive sessions with small breaks are also possible.

Christopher's books are aimed at middle grade and young adult. Author visits suit from ages 9 and up.

Although Christopher speaks fluent Dutch, all sessions are conducted in English.
